This Report

The New Mexico Children, Youth, and Families Department (CYFD), the New Mexico Department of Health (DOH), and the University of New Mexico Center For Education Policy Research (CEPR) are working together to gather information about the strong work and continuing challenges that young children, their families and communities face across the state.

We are gathering information about where programs like Home Visiting, Child Care, Head Start, Early Head Start, and PreK are located in communities across the state. With this information, we are developing maps that show where communities are facing the most risks, where programs are currently operating, the quality of these programs, and where there are gaps that need to be filled. We believe that this is information the state needs to make financial and other policy decisions to support young children, families and communities in an systematic and effective way.

The data we present and the maps we develop are not complete. Every community in New Mexico has strengths that we do not capture in our maps or needs that we have to recognize. One of our goals of presenting these maps is to emphasize the importance of accurate and complete data in informing the important discussions taking place around the state.

It is CEPR's intention to update and augment this report as more data become available. Please feel free to use these maps with appropriate citations. Any questions about the information presented in this book can be directed to Peter Winograd (peterwin@unm.edu).

The Child Care STAR Quality Rating System

The maps in this report show the location of child care centers that are rated at a 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 on the Children, Youth, and Families Department STAR Quality Rating System. The higher the STAR Level, the higher the level of quality. Level 1 child care centers meet minimum licensing regulations. Child care centers with Level 2, 3, 4 and 5 must meet higher and higher standards on the following elements:

- Staff Qualifications, Evaluation, and Communication
- Environment (Both Physical and Social-Emotional Responsive Environment)
- Observation and Documentation of Children's Progress and Curriculum Planning
- Staff/Caregiver Professional Development Plan
- Family Involvement Plan
- Administrative Plans
- Employee Compensation and Benefits
- Child Adult Ratios and Group Size
- Accreditation

Detailed information about the STAR Quality Rating System can be found at
